OFFICERS CAPTURE CROOKS

SIX MEN ARRESTED AND PLACED IN JAIL.

Two Parties in Gang Confess to Burglary of Upp Jewelry Store Yesterday Morning.

Chief of Police Browning, Detective Pender and Special Officer Robert Burke made a very clever capture of crooks yesterday afternoon. According to the statements of the officers, the men arrested belong to a band of all-round hold-ups and burglars. There are six of the fellows in the gang arrested yesterday, some of whom have made confession to crimes committed in Ogden. The confessions carry with them, the impression on the part of the officers that they have in custody a bunch of robbers that have been operating in nearby towns of the state of Nevada within the last few years.

The men arrested yesterday give their names as John Martin, George Fitzgerald, Frank Williams, Felix Weaver, Francis Joseph and Harry Joseph. Williams and one of the Josephs have confessed to the burglary of the H. F. Upp jewelry store, on Washington avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-second streets, Tuesday morning, and there is little doubt in the minds of the officers that the other four men were implicated in the burglary.

The premises were entered through a transom of the rear door and the place was burglarized of opera glasses, diamonds and other valuable jewelry, a part of which was found in the possession of the two men and the major portion of the balance was found in various pawn shops of the city. The fellows were arrested in the St. Louis saloon and other downtown places on Twenty-fifth street.

According to the evidence at the hands of the officers the six men have been working their way eastward from the coast, burglarizing and robbing wherever an opportunity was afforded. They held up and robbed a number of trainmen at Montello, Nevada, Saturday night, taking from them a watch and other jewelry, a part of which has been found in the Ogden pawn shops which was deposited by them. The officers aver that they have a clear case against three of the men in the Upp burglary, and that there is little question but that the evidence against the entire bunch for the robbery at Montello is conclusive as to their guilt.

Martin, Fitzgerald and Williams will in all probability be charged with the H. F. Upp jewelry store and the other men, Weaver and the two Josephs, will be held for the Nevada officers, and also be charged with being accomplices in the Ogden burglary.

The officers feel that they have succeeded in capturing a band of desperadoes who well deserve confinement in the penitentiary.

GRANTED SPECIAL LICENSE

Mombassa, Africa, March 10.—Ex-President Roosevelt has been granted a special hunting license that will permit him to kill game to an unlimited extent during his hunting trip to Africa, instead of being confined to the two elephants, two hippopotami, etc., of the regular license. Lions and leopards are classed as vermin, and consequently no license is required to kill them. The white population of Africa has heard much of Roosevelt's personality, and in a joking way, frequent references to the big stick are being made.

The rains are late this year and a heavy fall is expected. The regular time for the rain is from the end of January to the end of April. The prospects for good hunting are considered excellent. Many of the settlements in outlying districts realizing the increasing interest in the prospect for sport because of the coming of Roosevelt, are voluntarily sending information about the movements of game. According to a dispatch received here today, a record group of lions, numbering 32, was seen on the Nadi plateau, yesterday, about 50 miles north of Port Florence.

Four families of giraffes have been seen at Makindu, 200 miles inland from here, on the line of the Uganda railroad, and elephants have been seen at Elburgien, 475 miles inland from the railroad and along the Sabiki river, to the north of Mombassa. R. J. Cunningham, the noted English big game hunter, who is to be the guide of the Roosevelt party, has been here for some time completing preparations for the trip into the wilderness. He is hiring native porters for the expedition, and takes only experienced men who are known to be courageous and to possess great physical strength.

The "safari" kit, in other words, the camp equipment for the work in the open, is arriving from London, and all will be in readiness when Mr. Roosevelt gets here.

The railroad over the line as far as Port Florence by other distinguished visitors to Uganda, such as the Duke of Mecklenburg, the Duke of Canaught, the Duke of the Abruzzi, Jos. Chamberlain, and Winston Churchill, is being refitted for the use of Mr. Roosevelt. This car is most complete in its detail and provides the traveler with every comfort.

Everything points to a successful stay in Brest, Africa and Uganda, for Mr. Roosevelt. The natives are peaceful, game is plentiful and the people of Mombassa are awaiting eagerly to extend him a welcome.

The foregoing is the first direct cable dispatch from British East Africa, on the subject of Mr. Roosevelt's trip since it was learned that he was going to Africa. It was filed about noon March 10 by the Associated Press correspondent at Mombassa, and it reached New York several hours later.

and the great distance traveled delayed it somewhat. The deep sea cables from Mombassa around the east end of Africa to Aden and thence by way of Suez, Port Said, Malta and Gibraltar to New York, is the route the cable took.

Nervousness.
Nervousness is often due to some poison formed in the blood by the decomposition of undigested food—in other words, often arises primarily from indigestion.

Nervousness when due to this cause may sometimes continue through many years without causing dangerous conditions. On the other hand nervous disturbances due to this auto-intoxication or self-poisoning may be immediately fatal.

Many people, however, suffer from "nervous indigestion," as they call it, for 20 years or more without fatal termination. In these cases there is of course a gradual weakening of the general system which predisposes to many diseases and death is always premature, usually being traceable to what is called "heart failure."—Health Culture.

RAMMED IN A DENSE FOG

Chatham, Mass., March 10.—Blocked by a dense fog, the steamer Horatio Hall from Portland for New York, and H. F. Dimock, from New York for Boston, met in the middle of the narrow channel, known as Pollock Rip Slue, today, with a crash that sent the Hall to the bottom, within half an hour, and caused the Dimock to run ashore six hours later on Cape Cod beach, where the passengers and the crew of the Hall were landed unharm.

A brief wireless message which the operator of the sinking Hall managed to send broadcast, spread the news of the collision, but as he failed to give the position, details of the disaster did not become known until the Dimock came ashore shortly after 2 p. m.

During the six hours of silence, wireless stations on the coast were vainly endeavoring to locate the collision, while revenue cutters searched the coast to render assistance.

As the fog cleared later in the afternoon the Dimock was seen heading for the beach and her bow later a boat's crew with the five passengers from the Hall, including two women, landed. It is apparent that there was a misunderstanding of signals, for the two steamers suddenly loomed out of the fog and before either could sheer off they crashed together.

Captain Thompson of Dimock started to back his steamer, but seeing that he might save those on the Hall, sent her full speed ahead, held her nose into the jagged rent in the Hall and as he pushed the latter over toward shoal water on the side of the slough, the five passengers on the Hall were dragged over the tangled mass of wreckage to the deck of the Dimock. All the passengers were from western cities.

WOULDN'T GO BACK

To Old Days of Coffee Troubles.

Studious, sedentary habits are apt to cause indigestion, dyspepsia, nervous headaches, etc., but often it's the daily use of coffee that is at the bottom of the whole trouble, and it is surprising how quickly these troubles disappear when coffee is dropped and well-made Postum is the daily beverage.

A No. Dak. minister writes of the relief obtained when he changed from coffee to Postum. He says:

"I began using Postum about a year ago while stopping at the home of friends during the absence of my wife. It seemed almost providential, for during that time I got rid of coffee and its attendant ills. I used to have bilious attacks about every two weeks that completely used me up for a day or two at a time.

"I did not suspect coffee and was unable to account for these attacks. Since I began Postum I have had but one slight attack and the change to restored health is most acceptable.

"My wife declared on her return that nothing would induce her to give up coffee, but after a few careful preparations of Postum, according to directions on pkg., she thought it was superior to coffee in flavor, and now we would not change back to coffee.

"We feel we owe a debt of gratitude to Postum which has done so much for all of us—children and older ones."

PRESTON IS TO ANSWER IN COURT

HE WILL BE CHARGED WITH BOX CAR ROBBERY.

Was With Burns the Night Seymour L. Clark Was Murdered at Uintah Station, East of Ogden.

Information will be filed this afternoon or Friday morning against Jas. Preston, charging him with burglary in connection with the box car robbery at Uintah and the murder of Deputy Sheriff Clark on Thanksgiving night.

Since arriving at Ogden, Preston has made no further confession of connection with the Uintah crime, and has not been subjected to a close examination by either Sheriff Wilson or the district attorney. The prisoner is apparently contented in the county jail and announces perfect willingness to remain there until he is taken into court for trial on the burglary charge. The man has cut out "dope" for the time being at least, and shows physical improvement since his incarceration nearly six weeks ago.

The story that Mrs. Preston would visit Ogden today, with her attorney, to take steps to secure her husband's release, is not seriously considered at the sheriff's office. The woman has failed to put in an appearance and if she visited the county jail, where Preston is confined, it is more than doubtful whether she would be allowed to see or converse with him.

BIG CROWDS, COOPER TRIAL

Nashville, March 10.—"We contend that Colonel D. B. Cooper fired the shot which wounded his son, and that Senator Carmack, if he fired at all, fired wildly."

Attorney General Garner made this announcement today in the arguments in the trial of the Coopers and Sharpe, charged with murdering E. W. Carmack.

General Garner declared it would have been a physical impossibility for Carmack to shoot Robin, as the Coopers swear he did. The reasonable solution of the problem, he said, was that Colonel Cooper opened fire on Carmack, as Mrs. Eastman believes he did, and that a bullet from his pistol struck the telephone post, was deflected and entered Robin's shoulder. He contended that this theory is corroborated by the course of the bullet, which penetrated the flesh only an inch and a half and failed to strike a bone.

The proceedings were interrupted by the sudden fainting of Mrs. Carmack. The attention of the audience was instantly diverted to the widow of the murdered man.

It became evident from the argument of General Washington, of the defense, who followed General Garner, that the defense proposes to rely on a strong plea of justification as well as upon the plea of self-defense.

The attorney interpreted Senator Carmack's words and editorials as he said they were meant and as Colonel Cooper interpreted them, and declared that the colonel had no recourse in the world. He will conclude his argument tomorrow.

Nashville, March 10.—So dense was the throng inside the bar today, in the Cooper-Sharpe trial for the murder of E. W. Carmack, that Judge Hart could not reach the bench from his chambers until two husky deputies had pushed open a narrow path. Attorney General Garner began his argument for the state immediately after court opened.

He said: "I say that M. H. Meeks falsified the record when he told you that Senator Carmack called Colonel Cooper a dive-keeper. It was a cruel and monstrous misrepresentation.

"If you gentlemen of the defense have not enough evidence to bring a verdict of acquittal, then do not be deterred in the act of falsifying and deceiving the jury.

"No matter what Senator Carmack said on the stump or wrote in the Tennesseean about Colonel Cooper, there was no justification for murder.

"General Meeks says that murder for the editorials is justifiable. He, a lawyer, applied the 'unwritten law' to editors.

"They say that Senator Carmack accused Colonel Cooper of having received Governor Cox and Governor Patterson. And there was not a word to show that this reconciliation was improper or that it was degrading to have effected it. Yet they consider it justification for murder. If so, what in the name of God should be the punishment meted out to John Sharpe and Robin Cooper for the vile epithets to Senator Carmack?

"Colonel Cooper's son believed the father was in a homicidal mood. He went on the streets and searched him. All these men who have come here to testify that they were hurrying around to prevent Carmack from assaulting Colonel Cooper, tell you their efforts were directed at soothing Colonel Cooper. Not a word to Carmack, not an attempt to restrain him—why? Because they knew that the man who was the only one likely to cause trouble was Colonel Cooper.

"The evidence of the three defendants in this case, gentlemen, shows they are guilty, just as completely and as surely as does the evidence of Mrs. Eastman."

Coming to the actual shooting, he said: "They say now that Carmack at once drew a gun. Cooper says so, Robin corroborates him. John Sharpe, who sees it all, says that it is not true, that Robin drew a pistol and that Carmack didn't draw his revolver until he got to the poles. But if Senator Carmack drew his gun, why did he not shoot? What does a man draw a gun for, except to shoot? Yet they would have you believe that Carmack waited until Robin, who says he was paralyzed for an instant, jumped between Carmack and his father.

"Senator Carmack was shot twice through the heart and once through the spinal column—either one of which would have proven fatal.

"Gentlemen, I see in the location of these wounds, the accusing finger of God, making it impossible that justice should miscarry or that the guilty escape."

GUS OPENED CURBSTONE OFFICES

WHERE HE SOLD JOBS TO HIS COUNTRYMEN.

He Prospered Until an Indignation Meeting of the Unemployed Exposed His Grafting Methods.

Gus Christion, formerly a hot tamale merchant on Grant avenue, was brought into court this morning by Officer Cooney, on suspicion of his having been indulging of late in a bit of high finance. Gus is a Greek, and a number of his countrymen made complaint to the officers that he had been obtaining money from them under promise of employment.

Gus, it seems, told his friends that he could secure them profitable employment and would willingly do so in consideration of a slight remuneration. They inquired what amount of capital would be necessary for them to invest in a good job and their benefactor told them that $3 a head would be about right. Three friends volunteered at once and turned over the money as instructed, but the job was not forthcoming.

They waited around Gus' headquarters, which were of the curbstone variety, near the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Grant avenue, for several days until the idleness began to pall upon them. Gus seemed too busy with his other prospective customers most of the time and rather neglected the ones who had "put up" first. Finally an indignation meeting was held and the embryo employment director was arrested on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Gus pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned in police court, and the court, after hearing the testimony of Officer Cooney, ordered the defendant held under bonds to the amount of $30.

The complaining witnesses state that Gus painted vivid pictures of work in the hay fields and recited tales of the agricultural supremacy of nations until they considered him more or less in the light of a saviour of his people.

When You Go To Salt Lake

At conference time, put our Salt Lake building on your list of places to visit. We will keep "open house" every day from 10 o'clock a. m. to 5 o'clock p. m., during conference and will have guides ready between those hours to conduct visitors through the building and explain the apparatus. We especially desire to meet our patrons from places other than Salt Lake, but all callers will be welcomed heartily.

Our new Salt Lake plant is one of the finest in the world and is the largest in the inter-mountain country. A visit to the building will be most interesting and will give one some new ideas regarding the wonderful and intricate apparatus necessary to supply telephone service in a large modern city.

LEVI H. BANCROFT.

Madison, Wis., March 10.—One of the interesting political figures in Wisconsin state affairs today is L. H. Bancroft, the present speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Bancroft is a lawyer by profession and is making good politically. This is his second term in the legislature and his constituents have so far recognized his ability as an orator and leader that they have made him their speaker.

Mr. Bancroft first attracted attention several years ago, when he was just entering upon his career as a lawyer, by lighting for the liberty of a Polish girl, Rose Zeoldoske, who had been charged with poisoning a physician's wife and later his sweetheart because of love for him. Young Bancroft fought this case through all the courts, only to meet repeated failures at every trial. After every avenue of legal recourse had apparently failed he finally secured her pardon from the state board. His tenacity and determination combined with his oratorical and persuasive abilities at once made him a reputation to be envied. Later when Senator LaFollette was attempting to push some of his laws through the legislature, Bancroft appeared as a citizen before the legislature in a committee of the whole and so ably defended the bills that he attracted state-wide attention and was at once appointed assistant attorney general by Attorney General M. M. Sturdevant.
